Anniversary of Armistice Signing Marks End
Of Drive in District for Third Roll Call
And 100,000 Members.

John Enckias is a cripple and in his short life he has undergone many hardships and much suffering. Every day he hobbles about the streets selling papers. Whenever there is an opportunity to help someone or make a body happy he does it for he has a heart. But his earnings rarely amount to a dollar.

Yesterday John wended his way to the Railroad Administration office at Thirteenth and F streets. To a Red Cross worker there he tendered seven pennies.

"Take it," he insisted, "the Red Cross is my friend." Today is Red Cross tag day. At every turn a pretty girl and a tag will confront each pedestrian who is not displaying the emblem of mercy. All the girls of the Potomac division have volunteered their services for this last drive.

Orla Archey, formerly a patient at Walter Reed Hospital, who lost a leg in battle, turned in 156 members yesterday. Archey is a Croix de Guerre man. Mack Semist's bathing girl proved a star attraction and the special matinee at the Garden Theater yesterday afternoon swelled the fund. The girls appeared in street costume and were warmly applauded. The theater and picture, "Soldiers of Fortune," were tendered by Thomas Moore. Mrs. Allyn K. Capron was in charge of the Red Cross workers, who acted as ushers and sold tickets. G. W. Wilcox, of the Federal National Bank, officiated in the box office.

The following appeal was issued by the Red Cross last night:

"Every man and woman, who can afford it, are asked in a final appeal from Red Cross Thanksgiving Roll Call headquarters to join today, and to subscribe to the war relief fund, if they have not done so.

"The world's war is over, but the gigantic battle against disease has only begun, and when it is considered that more deaths occur in the United States, yearly, from that

No Decision By Miners' Chiefs
On Court Order

Matter of Jail Terms for Leaders Given Consideration at Session of Delegates at Indianapolis—Attorneys for Government Called in to Give Advice as to Reply.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 10.—The general committee and high officials of the United Mine Workers of America continued to debate tonight whether they would comply with the Federal Court mandate and call off the coal miners' strike or take a bold stand and precipitate a "fight-to-a-finish" battle with the government. The conference was being held behind closed doors.

United States marshals appeared at the meeting just before the afternoon session opened and served notice of the injunction on about forty officials who were out of town when the injunction was issued.

This was the first time they were notified officially of the court action.

The conference was opened this morning and at noon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock. During the recess none of the conferees would discuss what occurred during the morning session except to let it be known there was considerable differences as to the action best to take. It was said there was strong opposition to recalling the strike order.

Late this afternoon attorneys for the miners were called into the conference chamber. It was thought their advice was sought on the form to be given either the order rescinding the strike which must be submitted to the court tomorrow, or as to the reply that will be given the court if the rescinding order is refused. The attorneys were given a long time to discuss the matter of jail terms for leaders was even regarded as of secondary importance. The main question, it was said, was considering how to care for the miners and their families if it were decided to defy the court and prolong the strike.

D.C. LABOR BACKS
MINERS' STRIKE

Central Labor Union Votes
Unanimously to Give Support.

Endorsement of the declaration of the American Federation of Labor backing up the striking coal miners was officially passed upon last night by the Central Labor Union representing all organized labor in Washington at a meeting in Musician's Hall.

The resolution, which was signed by Harry S. Hollahan, president of the Central Labor Union, and N. A. James, secretary, was carried unanimously by the body, which packed the hall to capacity.

Because "those in charge of our government have seen fit to restrain the miners from carrying on a movement which has for its object only improved conditions for the miner" was given as one of the reasons for the approval of the declaration.

President Hollahan declared labor "would show the men on the 'hill' that it meant business."

Officials of the Federal Employees' Union announced last night that such a thing as a strike of government workers in sympathy with the coal miners was out of the question.

It was pointed out that the constitution of the National Federation and its affiliated bodies contained the proviso that members shall not strike against the government.

COURT UPHOLDS
ESPIONAGE ACT

Jacob Abrams and Four
Other Radicals Face 20-
Year Terms as Result.

The Supreme Court today upheld the constitutionality of the espionage act by confirming the sentences of twenty years each imposed in lower courts on Jacob Abrams and four other New York radicals for circulating revolutionary literature in the war.

The court's decision in the case was written by all members of the bench save Justices Holmes and Brandeis. Justice Holmes filed a dissenting opinion in which Justice Brandeis joined.

Terming the defendants "anarchists," Justice Clark, in the majority opinion, declared in part:

"Four of them testified as witnesses in their own behalf and of their own free will that they were 'anarchists' and 'revolutionists.' 'anarchists,' 'anarchists' did not believe in government in any form, and they declared they had as interest whatever in the government as the United States. The fourth defendant testified that he was a 'Socialist' and believed in 'a proper kind of government, not capitalistic,' but in his classification the government of the United States was 'capitalistic.'"

Justice Holmes, in his opinion, said:

"As against dangers peculiar to war, as against others, the principle of the right to free speech is always the same. It is only the present danger of immediate evil or an intent to bring it about that warrants Congress in setting a limit to the expression of opinion where private rights are not concerned. Congress certainly cannot forbid all efforts to change the mind of the country."

POSTOFFICE DIGS UP
ANOTHER "OLD ONE"

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—All long distance time and endurance records have been mutilated beyond repair by the Postoffice Department under Burleson when a letter to a New Yorker, mailed by the treasurer of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company during Grant's administration, John A. J. Creswell, a Republican of the Eastern shore being Postmaster General, back in 1871, was returned to the officers of the company today, marked "unclaimed."

It has taken this missive just forty-eight years to make a round trip to New York. Both the sender and the man to whom it was addressed have been long since dead and buried.

Where it has spent nearly half a century is a mystery that the local postoffice has not explained.

Mr. Clarke was in the thicket seeking the elusive animals and received part of the charge in the fleshy part of his leg.

He was taken to Sibley Hospital and most of the shot removed. The physicians do not fear any serious consequences.

THE BIBLE

Translated out of the original tongues and from the edition known as "Our Mother's Bible."

GENESIS.

CHAPTER 2.

1 The first sabbath. 2 The manner of the creation. 3 The planting of the garden of Eden, 4 and the river thereof. 5 The tree of knowledge only forbidden. 6 The naming of the creatures. 7 The making of woman, and institution of marriage.

Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them.

2 And on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made.

3 And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it he had rested from all his work which God created and made.

4 ¶ And the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, in the day that the Lord God made the earth and the heavens.

5 And every plant of the field before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field before it grew: for the Lord God had not caused it to rain upon the earth, and there was not a man to till the ground.

6 But there went up a mist from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground.

7 And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul.

8 ¶ And the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed.

9 And out of the ground the Lord God made every tree that is pleasant to the sight, and good for food: the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil.

10 And a river went out of Eden to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads.

11 The name of the first is Pison: that is it which compasseth the whole land of Ethiopia.

12 And the name of the second river is Gihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole land of Ethiopia.

13 And the name of the third river is Hiddekel: that is it which goeth toward the east of Assyria. And the fourth river is Euphrates.

14 And the Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it.

15 And the Lord God said, "Thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die."

16 And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, "Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat:

17 But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die."

18 ¶ And the Lord God said, "It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him a help meet for him."

19 And out of the ground the Lord God formed every beast of the field, and every fowl of the air, and brought them unto Adam to see what he would call them: and whatsoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof.

20 And Adam gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beast of the field: but for Adam there was not found a help meet for him.

21 And the Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept; and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof.

22 And the rib, which the Lord God had taken of Adam, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man.

23 And Adam said, "This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of man."

24 Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh.

25 And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed.

Boston, Nov. 10.—Six hundred new policemen were on regular duty here today. They were successful applicants for positions made vacant by the strike of 1,100 members of the department last September. There are 2,000 State guardsmen still on duty here, or about half the number called into service when the strike began. Further reductions in the guardsmen's force are expected shortly.
